

In-School Grief Support Groups

Provided by Michael's Place

About Us

Michael's Place offers grief support services designed to ease the impact of loss by providing a safe space to share experiences and connect with peers, gain tools and resources to cope with grief, and offer educational opportunities to help build a grief-informed, compassionate community.

About In-School Support Groups

Unaddressed grief can impact a student's academic and social-emotional development. Michael's Place provides grief support groups to elementary, middle, and high schools that help address the important needs of their bereaved students.

Children and teens meet in groups based on ages and grade levels to allow bereaved students to come together in a safe place where they can share their grief with peers who have also experienced a loss.

These groups promote healthy expression of emotions, reduce isolation, develop a variety of coping skills, and create opportunities to share memories in an empowering environment.

For questions about our in-school support program or information on how to start one in your school, contact Melissa Dunklow at (231) 947-6453 or Melissa@MyMichaelsPlace.net
